

FLASH

Old-school cameras are disappearing—so, gift givers, keep an eye out for the latest digital devices. New cameras offer better zoom features with more megapixels—and come in smaller, pocket-size variations. Larger LCD (liquid-crystal display) screens let you look over images without squinting—and expanded memory cards allow for faster transfer. But don't think you can still just point and shoot for a snapshot of the baby. We stack up options.

1/ PANASONIC LUMIX DMC-FX7 circuitcity.com With a 2.5-inch LCD screen for picture viewing, this tiny camera breaks the mold—small cameras usually have only small screens. $500

2/ CONCORD EYE-Q 5062AF amazon.com As simple to operate as a traditional point-and-shoot, this 5-megapixel camera offers multizone autofocus, 7 preset scenes and a 1.8-inch LCD for previews. $199

3/ SONY CYBER-SHOT DSC-PI50 sonystyle.com Just 1 inch thick, this water-resistant (down to 132 feet) camera has a 1.8-inch LCD and 9 preset modes for day and night shots. $500

4/ NIKON COOLPIX 8400 circuitcity.com Smile for the widest digital camera lens to date. This 8MP, 3.5x optical zoom includes the same extra-low-dispersion glass used in top-line lenses. You don't need to be a pro to appreciate its specs. $899

5/ CASIO EXILIM PRO EX-P600 ritzcamera.com The .01-second shutter release and fast start-up time means you'll get that important shot before it disappears. Meanwhile, 6MP resolution and 4x optical zoom lets you close in on the details. $599
